

Pinewood Book Week Schedule

Middle & High School

During the week of January 20-24, Pinewood will be celebrating books! During the week, the English Department has organized several very special events centered on the questions:

“Are books still relevant in today’s world of technology proliferation?”

The following special events will take place for students and teachers. Please note the times & participants of each event and make adjustments to your schedule as needed for this very special week:

MONDAY, JANUARY 20

Shakespeare’s As You Like It Theater Performance

David Gibson will deliver an introduction to Shakespeare, followed by a special theater group from Aristotle University, who will present excerpts & adaptations of the play, As You Like It, by Shakespeare.

Participants: Grades 6–12
Location: Gymnasium
Time: 14:00 – 14:55 (part of 5th & all of 6th period)

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 22

Why Read When There’s a Computer in the Room?

This seminar will address our questions, “Are books still relevant in today’s world of technology proliferation?” Student performances, surprise teacher presentations and a special guest author will all challenge us to think about this question...and give answers!

Participants: Grades 6–12
Location: Gymnasium
Time: 13:55 – 14:55 (1 seminar period)*

**Note that on this day, we will have one class after lunch & then proceed to the gym for Seminar. Dimitris will send Wednesday schedule for this day, as always.*

FRIDAY, JANUARY 24

Staged Read-In

Our Middle School students will go to the library to learn about their next D.E.A.R. assignment, a creative banner, and then enjoy a relaxing hour of reading for pleasure in the Library...students and teachers!

Participants: Grades 6, 7, 8
Location: Library
Time: 9:15 – 10:15 (second period)

ATTENTION ALL TEACHERS & STAFF!!

In addition to the special events outlined above, we are asking ALL TEACHERS to contribute to Book Week by helping to give our school a LITERARY AMBIENCE. Your task is simple...In your mailbox, you will find a long strip of construction paper. On it, you are asked to write the first line(s) from one of your favorite books (in any language). Also include the title of the book, author and your name. You may decorate it as you please & return it to Roxanne by Friday, February 17. We will hang them around the school for Book Week. You can view a sample hanging next to Stephanie’s desk if you need some visual motivation!
